

PACKLANE

Print Production Artist

If you have a passion for print and an even bigger passion for perfecting the details, then have we got a role for you! Our future Print Production Artist has a knack for catching the tiniest imperfections, knowledge of various printing processes, and a love for helping brands build their business with beautiful design. They'll play a key role in ensuring every box that goes out the door is in tip-top shape. It's a big job - think you're up for it?

Who We Are:

Allow us to introduce ourselves! At Packlane, we empower brands big and small to create beautiful, affordable unboxing experiences that customers will enjoy and remember. From subscription boxes to event swag, eye-catching packaging can help brands connect with their customers – so we do everything we can to make it a smooth and easy process. Our services are trusted by over 15,000 companies including Google, L'Oreal, Casper, Mailchimp and more.

We're a team of eager self-starters from all over the world, and we're looking for others to help grow Packlane into the best company it can be. Our core values are creativity (including beautiful design), high quality work, and a passion for what we do. If that sounds like a good fit, we can't wait to hear from you!

What You'll Do:

You'll spend your work days helping our proofing team and production team deliver perfect print quality (try saying that five times fast!). Tasks will include:

1. Creating digital proofs and ensuring timely and accurate artwork preparation
2. Being the resident artwork expert! Other departments will know they can always come to you with difficult artwork tasks.
3. Keeping a close eye on all incoming artwork to avoid backlog, and prioritizing certain orders based on customer support's needs
4. Helping customer service address artwork-related questions and complaints (using your expert communication skills to do so!) .
5. Seeing orders through the entire process, from placement to submission to production.
6. Coming up with innovative ideas for improving our proofing process
7. Acting as our vital last line of defense — every order that goes out the door will need your artwork quality stamp of approval.

Who You Are:

If you have an outstanding portfolio and a love for helping people, then you'll fit right in! More specifically, we're looking for:

- A total pro at Adobe Illustrator and Photoshop.

- Deadlines-motivated and detail-driven
- Excellent communication skills
- Organized and focused, with an ability to juggle multiple projects at a time.
- Familiarity with corrugated and/or paperboard packaging production processes
- Last but not least, an intermediate knowledge of printing processes (especially wide-format digital, lithography, and flexography) and the eagerness to learn more on the job.

Apply at: <https://packlane.breezy.hr/p/034f9b866138-print-production-artist>